

San Luis Obispo Tribune May 22, 2011

PHOTO: Patching up the Elfin Forest path

By David Middlecamp | dmiddlecamp@thetribunenews.com | purchase prints

Steven Hobdy, left, and others with the California Conservation Corps replace boards on the Elfin Forest boardwalk.

Steven Hobdy, left, and others with the California Conservation Corps replace boards on the Elfin Forest boardwalk. Some boards on the 4,500-foot, 11-year-old walkway needed replacing after they had split with age.

SWAP, the Small Wilderness Area Preservation, is coordinating the repair and spearheaded an effort to convert the area to public ownership and access. SWAP celebrated its 25th anniversary in October.

Read more: <http://www.sanluisobispo.com/2011/05/22/1611669/photo-patching-up-the-elfin-forest.html#ixzz1NBgXLkGf>